OUR COVER

Paradise for photographers who crave the action of rough water has been the area around the breakwater. With some very heavy seas lately some very effective shots have been obtained.

BACK COVER

Approaching sunset over the mountain is another subject that should be very popular with the local photographers. The picture on the back cover was taken from Omata with the sun projecting golden rays of an approaching sunset.

Below: Landmark on Mount Egmont is Humphries Castle. This photograph was taken from the North Egmont Hotel, through a long telephoto lens.

NEXT ISSUE: AUG. 31

New Airport Site

Perhaps in another two or three years, work will be well advanced on the new airport site at Brown Road. With the government promise that work will start almost immediately, the new site will be advantageous to the city, in that the new airport will have sealed runways. The old airport is shown in the background of this aerial photo, while the approximate area of the new one is in the foreground. Browns Road links the two airports.

Above, right: Mr Honnor shows the Prime Minister, RT.Hon. K.J.Holyoake, the new site during the PM's recent visit to the city.

Top of the pole with 2849 votes is Ann St. George, 134, Brooklands Road, NP.

Maira Jean Boyd, 17, Hamblyn Street, NP, was second with 2137 votes.

Prime Minister's Visit

New Plymouth was recently honoured with a visit from the Prime Minister and a retinue of National Members of Parliament. While here, the party visited many industries and places of interest, and culminated their visit with a public meeting in the Regent Theatre, where the PM told the audience that we are to get a new airport. It would appear that with a recent visit by the Leader of the Opposition and a party of Labour Members that New Plymouth will be a focal point in the coming elections. Pictures on this page were taken at the National Party Rooms, when the visitors had lunch.

Old Folks Get V.I.P. Visitor

During the visit to New Plymouth of the Prime Minister and his party, a call was made at the Old Folks' Rooms, where the PM addressed a very crowded hall and met a few of the older individuals and had a game of bowls, a game at which he doesn't seem too good. Above: Here, the Prime Minister is seen telling a story to Mrs A.E. Grant, a young-looking 94-years-of-age. Also shown looking on is the president of the OFA, Mr Ernie Davis, Below: As can be seen from this photograph, the hall was crowded for this visit of a V.I.P.

Prime Minister Plays Bowls

Indoor bowls is not a strong point with the PM as was shown at the Old Folks when he visited them recently. Above: Learning the way to hold a bowl, he is being shown by Mr R. Stevens. Above, right: His delivery was ragged, but that's only because he doesn't get much practice. Watching are Messrs Shindler and Joe Hewson.

M.P. Visit Local Factories

During the visit of the National Party members many industries were seen. Here is Mr W.H. Brown, Mr B. Cooksley, Mrs A. Gale, and Noel Daly, whose factory they visited. Mrs Dulcie McCarthy is busy putting riding hats together.

Married

Right: EYNON-NUKU.

Rugby: B.H.S. Beaten By Collegiate

The Wanganui Collegiate team fought well to beat the NPBHS team in their annual inter-college match at the Gully ground. The home team played the more rugged football, but erred in keeping the ball in the tight. Had they used their wingers more, the score could have been very different.

Australian Badminton Players

Playing to a capacity crowd in the Sports Hall, Hawera, the touring Australian Badminton team defeated Taranaki in all matches. Some very good badminton was witnessed, with particular stress on the length of some of the rallies. Though the home players fought without letting up, superior finesse gained wins for their opposite numbers.

MISS BROOKLANDS ENGAGED

Right: MORINE-BOND. Adrienne Elaine, only daughter of Mr and Mrs E.W. Bond, NP, to Francis John, eldest son of Mr and Mrs F.V. Morine, New Plymouth.

Progress In The City

The two major building projects in the city, the Tasman Hotel and the new Olympic swimming pool at Kawaroa, are now well advanced. There are, of course, many minor operations taking place in other parts of the city, which all help to modernise and fill some of the empty sections in the business area. The Tasman Hotel, above, has become a landmark in the city, with its eight storeys reaching skywards. It dwarfs the present building, shown in the foreground. Not only was the Tasman the first building to use the "lift-slab" method of building, it will be New Plymouth's first skyscraper.

Below: Hine Street is a scene of activity these days as the grass verges have been removed to make the street fully tar-sealed. The reason for this is to help to provide parking for the new Olympic pool at Kawaroa Park, now nearing completion.

Waitara Has Changed In 60 Years

A great change has taken place at Waitara in the last 60 years as these photographs show. The picture above, taken around 1905, shows the Waitara River on Regatta Day. Perhaps not so crowded as regatta days now, but none the less popular. At bottom right of this picture is the old Eastern wharf, whilst on the opposite side of the river is the now extinct Freezing Works wharf. The remains of this are clearly shown in the photograph, below, which was taken recently. It plainly shows the expansion of the works, and also the usage that the town wharf got in those days. But the two sheds by the town wharf are still standing, as can be seen in the modern photograph.

"Mikado" Production Coming To Waitara

This year's major production of the Waitara Little Theatre is Gilbert and Sullivan's "Mikado" which will run for a week, commencing on August 12th, at the Waitara War Memorial Hall. The following 19th and 20th, it will be produced at the Francis Douglas College Hall. This well-known and popular production should provide some first class entertainment.
