Variety At The Bowl

First show of the season at the Bowl of Brooklands was a variety night which could only be termed as first-class entertainment. Well known NZ artists plus good local talent combined to make the evening most enjoyable. Above: One of the liveliest groups yet seen on the Bowl stage was the Hamilton County Blue Grass band. Below: Local artists Frank Beaurepaire and his daughter Rosemarie performed well. Above, right: International artist Silvio De Pra, master of the accordion. Right: Auckland's Ann Stott provided the songs which were thoroughly enjoyed by the 1200 people present. Below, right: Local group, the Dominoes, provided the background music.

MARRIED

Above: ERUETI-CLARK. At St. Augustine's Anglican Church, NP, Sharon, eldest daughter of Mr and Mrs A. J. Clark, NP, to Angus, eldest son of Mr and Mrs W. Erueti, NP. OUR COVER

Dressed in some of the latest in beach wear, supplied by Sportshaven, NP, and worn to the best advantage, is Kay Kircher. This picture of Kay was taken at Paritutu, and shows the beach that will be the site of the new coal-fired power station.

BACK COVER

Top: Many complimentary remarks have been made about the festive lighting in Devon Street and important points of the city. We can only add our compliments for a job well done. Our picture shows the effect of lighting on the roundabout at the Royal Hotel. Bottom: Two pictures taken at the first shows at the Bowl, with Ann Stott, at left, and the Hamilton County Blue Grass Band at right.

Stock Cars

There's been some lively excitement and thrills at the recent stock car meetings at Stratford, with good crowds to watch this spectacular sport.

Above: D. Johansen and T. Loving, both Stratford, piled up on the fence while P. Childs, Wellington, passes the wrecks. Below: J. Langl, NP, and G. Scott, Eltham, get mixed in an argument. Right: One of the rock and rollers gets righted for another flip. Bottom: J. Langl, NP, made a nasty hole in his radiator with this crash into the safety fence.

Miss Taranaki Contest

The weather wasn't particularly kind to organiser Peter Randford for the annual Miss Taranaki contest at Opunake Beach. The afternoon show rated a few hundred people after a morning of rain had probably deterred a lot from making the journey. Despite this, the show was a success from the talent point of view. Eight gorgeous gals lined up for the judges, and we feel that they must have had a hard job picking the winner, Christine Antunovic, NP, shown above. Left: Next to her comes Jennifer Macks, NP, then we have Lynda Burt, Opunake, and Beverley Leach, NP. Below: Mr Show Biz himself, Howard Morrison, pleased the crowd at the show, both in the afternoon and evening.

The flower-girls were Karen Ngankee and Ann Chivers, both NP. Future home, NP.

HAPPY HOLIDAY AT TIKORANGI

Thirty-six Guides of the Waitara and Otakeho companies recently spent a happy six days in camp at Tikorangi. Our photographer went out to the camp and found the girls doing chores that seemed to keep them very happy. Above: These six girls were busy washing their smalls. From left: Robyn Smart, Glenda Howell, Frances McLane, Beverley Maguire, Sherril Cross and Annette Leuthard. Left: Hard-working young lass Gillian King was busy chopping the kindling. Below: Preparing salad for the luncheon are, from left, Sharon Roberts, Annette Anderson, Kaye Bishop and Barbara Henderson.

Above: Fun on the rope bridge at the recent Guide camp at Tikorangi is enjoyed by Denise Anderson, Robyn Peterson and Robyn Wood. Below: In charge of the camp, Mrs Avis Hollow, Waitara, gives the girls a lesson in knots, and those keen to learn are, Florence Lawrence, Janet Ayles and Sharon Cameron. Above, right: In the cookhouse preparing the lunch was the chief cook, Mrs Jo Lacy, and her assistant Sherril (Twiggy) Cross. Right: Menu for the day was posted on the board, and consisted, amongst other things, of Pakeha Stew!

NEW FISHING TRAWLER. The new trawler being built at Ngamotu beach has now taken shape and looks a rugged seaworthy ship. When completed, it will work from Port Taranaki.

Clifton v. N.P. Rowing

First inter-club contest between the NP and Clifton rowing clubs took place at Ngamotu beach. It was a contest which was thoroughly enjoyed by all, and it is hoped to make this an annual competition. Above, left: The Clifton maiden four comprise Gary Hemmings, Gary Paltridge, Tom Martin, Ron Muir and cox Dennis Crowe. Above: The maiden four take their boat down to the water. Below, left: Rigging the craft prior to the racing is a job which calls for accuracy. Below: Gary Hemmings and Gary Paltridge make sure everything is shipshape.

START ROTHMANS FINISH

INTERNATIONAL RIDERS THRILL LARGE CROWDS

On New Year's Eve, a very large crowd turned up in brilliant weather to watch some of the best motor cycle scramble riders in the world. According to the riders, the course was one of the toughest they had encountered during their tour of the country. So tough was it in fact, that many riders came to grief, including some of the more experienced. The North Taranaki Motor Cycle Club did a fine piece of organising for this meeting, and were complimented very highly by the visiting riders.

Above: Field for the main event is let away by the starter, with throttles wide open. It was a real thrill seeing them jockeying for position on the first of the many corners.
