A section of the house owned by Mr F. Butler being moved from its Gill Street site to a new site on Mountain Road. It looked a tight squeeze when a small bridge across the Mangaoraka Stream, just north of the New Plymouth airport was reached, but the solution proved simple and the tray of the transporter was raised a couple of inches. Traffic Officer Ross was kept busy guiding traffic and all was well in little over an hour when Mr Wallis, a Hawera Contractor was able to breathe again as the first section of the house was delivered to its new home. The other half was moved later proving that in these days one can always pick up ones house and find fresh pastures.
